

VPs all—that's the Northern way.

I'M still waiting for the day when the airport manager greets me on the apron, brushes down my coat, and escorts me to my Rolls. "Step this way, sir, and follow the red carpet."

But who are the airport VIPs? How long does the apprenticeship take? And are some 25 more VI than others?

I put my questions to the Ringway VIP handler, who, bless his cotton windsocks, came up with the comfort-insurance that we are all VIPs, you and I and the 1,628,000 others who passed through the airport last year.

The difference is that some of us VIPs have to make the tiresome trail through the Customs with bawling kids on each arm. And some do not, which is why I envy them.

Ringway does not have a VIP list. No scandal in stockport will strike you from it or a liver pressed hotly into the right hand adds you to it. But there is a kind of pecking order based on courtesy, tradition, and common sense.

The first step is usually a phone call to say that X will be arriving on the Y plane from Z. Then airport officials decide what treatment he should be given on the basis of who he is.

Everybody goes through the controls in one way or another. Politicians and diplomats can be met as they step off the plane and driven straight off the apron after clearance.

Other VIPs — the Class Two variety — will be met and shepherded through the controls to beat the rush. But not unless they ask for it beforehand.

And others, eager to keep out of the public eye, want to go through the normal procedures with a minimum of fuss.

Ringway does not have many VIPs to deal with. Film stars and entertainers who want the publicity make a point of arriving in London.

So I leave the last word with the Heathrow spokesman who said of Richard Burton and Liz Taylor: "As far as we're concerned, they've never had a VIP status. What you've never had you never miss."

When airport inquiry chairman Mr Justice Ruskell returned to the chair at Hampshire Quarter Sessions he said: "It is nice to be back where the natives are friendly."

Go by horse

EXILED Scots in the North-West taking part in tonight's Hogmanay celebrations may not know of an old Scottish tradition which says a "first-foot" is utterly welcome if he arrives at your door on horseback.

In less hurried days, people calling on friends and neighbours used to carry an evergreen branch symbolising continuing life.

The "first-foot" would enter a home, go straight to the fire, stir the dying embers, and then turn round and greet the household. Not until that moment was anyone supposed to speak.

Incidentally, if you followed a certain trade or profession you were considered an unlucky "first-foot." Among these were hangmen, gravediggers, ministers, and doctors. It is still considered unlucky to have a woman as the first person to enter your house in the New Year.

Tanks and trains

THE MAN WHO was responsible at Crewe locomotive works during the war for the electrical installation work in Army tanks, Cyril Lloyd, of Cobbs Lane, Hough, Crewe, has retired after 45 years' railway service, the last seven as electrical shop superintendent.

Moving up

A MAN WHO fought to save a town's last railway from being shut has been given a top job by the Coal Board.

Mr William Monks, Colliery, Tyldesley, has been made general manager of Bold Colliery, St Helens. He was manager of Bedford Colliery, Leigh, before moving to Astley Green. He was also in the thick of a fight to save Bedford before it closed.

Winning ways

THE FESTIVAL OF WALES Trophy has been awarded by the Wales Tourist Board to the joint marketing panel of the North Wales Gauges Railways of Wales. It is awarded each year to the town or organisation that made the greatest contribution to the enhancement of the prestige of Wales among other nations.

Yvonne helps

IT WAS the "Miss Nantwich" title which started Yvonne Ormes, the reigning Miss United Kingdom, on the trail to major beauty contests.

She was in danger because Nantwich Carnival Committee has disbanded.

So 21-year-old Yvonne has offered to organise the 1971 "Miss Nantwich" contest and the town council will give the contest financial backing.

From the heart

A DEVICE which can be used to monitor the hearts of patients in transit is to be presented to the cardiac unit at the Manchester Royal Infirmary.

The device — known as a plethysmograph — has been bought for the hospital by Manchester Heart Aid Committee. It costs more than £250.

A hospital spokesman said the equipment could be used to monitor all heart functions both in the ward and while the patient was being moved from one part of a hospital to another.

Initial tests with the device will be carried out by anaesthetist Dr Peter Jackson.

Singing governor

GOVERNOR Lester Maddox, of Georgia, America, is planning to make records when he leaves office in January.

He says he will concentrate on "songs of patriotic and religious nature" and hopes to become the first ex-governor to sell a million records.

Shorten long

THE Johannesburg Saga, the 1,150-page official history of the city, contains 600,000 words and weighs 11lb. It took the author seven years to write it. His name? John Shorten.

Women turn to tobacco chewing

THE day your wife rolls a quid of tobacco around her tongue, purses her lips, and squirts a stream of brown juice into the fire you'll know she is about to become the 51st State.

In America the use of tobacco is changing dramatically. At 7031 pounds, the type that is used for chewing easily sold the sort smoked in pipes last year.

Much of the increase, it is reported, is due to the expanding sales of "moist snuff," a fine cut brand of chewing tobacco that appears to have originated from the stuff that is snuffed.

So many American women are joining the ranks of tobacco and moist snuff chewers that snuff manufacturers, who were faced with extinction a few years ago, are now beginning to advertise their wares again.

But four not for your image of British womanhood! Tobacco chewing is not yet, anyway, becoming trendy with the dolly set.

Nor does it seem likely to be taken up by the average British male. The Tobacco Advisory Council says: "The practice of chewing tobacco in this country is declining except in mining communities."

In fact, says the council, the use of tobacco except for that in cigarettes have been declining in sales for the past 50 years. In 1961 48M lbs. of pipe tobacco were sold. Now it is only 15M.

And as for snuff, the market for the stuff is relatively small. Only 500,000 lbs. a year are produced and sold in Britain.

Says the TAC, rather loftily: "Snuff and chewing tobacco in America are more like confectionery, being highly flavoured with sweeteners such as molasses and the like. In the UK we have mostly pure tobacco."
